ROSATOM: THE BOMB IS NOT TERRIBLE AT ALL

On September 8 of this year, Elena Shaposhnikova's article "Bomb" was published in Trud. It discussed what the author considered a very alarming situation that had developed at the recently commissioned fissile material storage facility (FMS) at the Mayak nuclear power plant.

In an official letter to the editor, the Russian Federal Atomic Energy Agency outlined its position on the issue raised by Trud. Here are excerpts from that response: "The nuclear fuel storage facility was designed and constructed based on the Russian Federation Government Decree of 25.05.1993 No. 495-r as a first category facility designed to withstand special impacts. In particular, it is designed to withstand earthquakes, temperature effects, a shock wave, an airplane crash... To accommodate the excess weapons-grade plutonium declared by the Russian Federation Government, 1,689 of 3,168 nests will be loaded into the nuclear fuel storage facility. The US funding for the construction of the nuclear fuel storage facility is $397.5 million, while the Russian Federation is providing 436,369.7 million rubles. The start-up complex of buildings (<http://www.niex.ru/>), and structures for the nuclear fuel storage facility was accepted into operation by the state commission by Act No. 1561 of 10.12.2003. In July 2006, the nuclear fuel storage facility was placed under armed guard by the internal troops of the Russian Ministry of Internal Affairs, and fissile material loading began. The project was assessed by specialized organizations and expert commissions from the Ministry of Natural Resources of Russia (the State Environmental Expertise Expert Commission), the State Sanitary and Epidemiological Surveillance Service of Russia, the Ministry of Emergency Situations of Russia, the Ministry of Internal Affairs of Russia (the State Fire Service), the Ministry of Defense of Russia (the Directorate for State Supervision of Nuclear and Radiation Safety), the Ministry of Atomic Energy of Russia (the State Project Expertise Commission), the State Research Center - Institute of Biophysics, and the Russian Federal Nuclear Center - VNIITF. The facility is operated by the Mayak Production Association. Supervision is carried out by the Nuclear and Radiation Safety Directorate of the Ministry of Defense of Russia.

In addition to the official information provided, we can inform you that the HDM in the Chelyabinsk Region is one of, and perhaps the safest, storage facilities of its kind in the world. Its walls alone are 7 (!) meters thick.
